Nov 11  Rachel Korazim Israeli Society and the Holocaust

Nov 15  Rabbi Sydney Mintz, Comedy Night
Please join us for a special afternoon with renowned educator Martin Meyer Sanctuary Sunday, November 11, 2:00 – 4:00 pm, WITH RACHEL KORAZIM ISRAELI SOCIETY AND THE HOLOCAUST ANNUAL KRISTALLNACHT (POGROMNACHT) COMMEMORATION narrative in Israel — from the early days while still under British the Holocaust, exploring the development of the Holocaust testimonies, evaluating ideological and political points of view to create a combined image of our quest for meaning. Rachel is a freelance Jewish education consultant in curriculum development for Israel and Holocaust education. She engages audiences worldwide through innovative presentations built around the stories, poems, and songs of Israel's best writers. Her thought-provoking talks open a window into Israeli society, inviting listeners to engage in new ways with the Jewish homeland and its history.

This program is designed to engage intergenerational conversation around the Holocaust. Children 11+ are welcome, and younger kids may also participate at parental discretion.

This program is free to the community and is presented in partnership with the Shalom Hartman Institute and the Koret Foundation.

Ami Ayalon and Liat Schlesinger will share their experiences from and analysis of their joint work in consolidating and revitalizing the progressive community. The Israeli center-left camp, they argue, can return to dominance in the public arena and ultimately win in the ballot box. Today, this task is not only a political goal, but also an existential necessity.

Ami Ayalon is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Haifa Research Center for Maritime & Strategy. He is a senior research fellow at the Israel Democracy Institute and serves as the chairman of AKIM Israel (the National Association for the children and adults with Intellectual Disabilities). Ayalon is one of the founders of Blue White Future (“BWF”), a non-partisan political movement, committed to securing the future of Israel as a Jewish and democratic state through facilitating an inclusive discourse to promote a two state solution. Admiral (ret.) Ami is a former Director of Israel Security Agency (the Shin Bet) and a former commander of Israel's Navy. He has served as a cabinet minister and a member of the Knesset. Along with Sari Nusseibeh, he headed the People’s Voice peace initiative in 2002.

Liat Schlesinger is the Executive Director of Molad. Before that, she was head of investigative research at Molad. Prior to joining Molad, Schlesinger was an investigative journalist at Ma’ariv, an Israeli daily publication. In 2013, she was awarded the Pratt Prize for Environmental Journalism. Liat holds an M.A. in International Community Development from the Hebrew University.
IT’S A MOVEMENT!

Whenever I need a quick reminder of how modest my contributions to the rabbinate have been over the past 29 years, all I have to do is think of Rabbi Isaac Mayer Wise. You may not recognize the name, but I assure you, the accomplishments and legacy of Rabbi Wise have significantly impacted your life. Like many German Jews, Rabbi Wise arrived in America in the mid-1800s. As he surveyed the American Jewish landscape at that time, with its hodge podge of disparate communities, he saw a need for two initiatives: (1) to reform and update Judaism, making it palatable to American Jews; and (2) to bring all American Jewry together under a single unified body. Clearly, he had never heard the joke about the shipwrecked Jew rescued from a desert island who, while marooned, had built two synagogues (one he wouldn’t set foot in!).

Be that as it may, Rabbi Wise did end up having a monumental role in shaping our lives by creating four very significant building blocks of new American Judaism:

- The Union of American Hebrew Congregations (now known as the Union for Reform Judaism [URJ]), in 1873
- The Hebrew Union College, in 1875
- The Central Conference of American Rabbis, in 1889
- The Union Prayerbook, in 1894

Take note of the names he chose for each of these elements; because he sought to unite ALL American Jews, none of them includes the word “Reform” in the title!

While Rabbi Wise’s goal of creating ONE Judaism proved impossible — we now have many flourishing denominations (including Reform, Reconstructionist, Orthodox, Conservative, Renewal, Humanist, anti-denominational “Indie” movements, and numerous distinctive Hasidic branches) — such a diversity ensures a healthy, robust Judaism. Although every Jew is united to the whole by Torah, we need choices in how Torah teachings and values are incorporated into our daily lives, and multiple interpretations of our civilizational religion are vital to its sustainability.

The movement that Rabbi Wise created has flourished, and with its hallmark of embracing both tradition and innovation, Reform Judaism is now the largest denomination in North America! For example, one Reform leader — Rabbi Alexander Schindler — was an early adopter of the value of welcoming interfaith families into our congregations. Rabbi Schindler was a visionary who recognized that many families with parents from two different backgrounds want to raise a Jewish family and pass Torah along to the next generation. Additionally, Rabbi Rick Jacobs, the current leader of the URJ (and my boss for four years in my early years in the rabbinate) is an unapologetic Zionist who believes that Reform Judaism deserves full recognition in Israel.

Rabbi Jacobs will be speaking at our One Shabbat Service on Friday, November 9. He will also be in attendance to witness our Young Adult Late Shabbat that same evening, as recognizing Jewish millennials as the future of Judaism is another one of his passions. Please plan to be with us on November 9.

Mark your calendar also for December 11–14, 2019 (yes, a whole year from now) to join a delegation of Emanu-El members in attending the URJ Biennial in Chicago. This conference will provide a great opportunity to communicate with other Reform Jews about current issues, and to experience the thrill of a communal Shabbat along with 5,000 other Reform Jews all singing and experiencing Torah together!

As Judaism evolves, I believe that Reform Judaism will continue to serve the needs of a large segment of American Jews more effectively than any other denomination. Again, I invite you to join us at the November 9 One Shabbat Service so you can hear directly from the current leader of the Reform Jewish movement!

Make Sure to Vote

Congregation Emanu-El is partnering with other organizations — such as the League of Women Voters, Religious Action Center, and Jewish Community Relations Council — to ensure that our congregants and the broader community are registered to vote, committed to vote, and educated on the issues that matter to them.

Did you know that only 15 percent of 18 to 20-year-olds voted in the last midterm election in 2014? Check out MitzVote (www.mitz.vote) to find out how you can help inspire our youth to get involved in the political process!

Emanu-El Spotlight

This November, Emanu-El will be celebrating Donny’s tenure as president of the Congregation Emanu-El Board of Directors. An interview with Donny will be featured in a future Chronicle, but in the meantime, we are sharing his sermon from this year’s Rosh Hashanah service. “ROSH HASHANAH 5779”

By Donny Friend

Good Yontif! It is a privilege and an honor on behalf of your Board of Directors to address this Congregation on this important day. My tenure in this sacred role has truly fulfilled so many of my dreams for our community’s Jewish connection.

Some of us only see each other during these “days of awe” and yet the feeling of closeness is present immediately like we haven’t missed a beat. We have an ongoing relationship bound by our covenant to live our lives in the great Jewish tradition, at any level we choose. We come to Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur services because it marks our time in the calendar and causes us to reflect on ourselves and where we are. In fact, our Jewish calendar has these magical reminders filled with festivals and observances to focus our attention on relevant matters throughout the year. Today and during the last month of Elul we contemplate. What do I want to change? What am I doing to make the world a better place? Am I and/or my close ones being wasteful? Are we displaying anger? Are we being kind?

We need to ask these questions of ourselves. Our world is so full of problems from the divided nature of our citizens, to nuclear threats, to our homeless, to random shootings, to global warming, to fires wiping out neighborhoods just miles from where we sit. It would be easy for us to be hopeless and to forecast a bleak future for our community and our world. If it feels overwhelming, you are not alone.

It is our job as Jews to be hopeful and to find opportunities to improve our world rather than contribute to its deterioration. In our history, more than any other people, we have experienced adversity and almost certain destruction time after time. The miracle of our continued existence as we celebrate the arrival of 5779 is remarkable. I believe that the secret is our adherence to Torah that instructs us on how to behave as humans. When we wrestle with Torah, we re-examine life situations contemplated for thousands of years. The experiences of our forefathers and foremothers are enveloped in this Tanakh, the most popular book of all time. It was handed down to us at Mt. Sinai over 3,000 years ago and yet when we read the various parshyot throughout the year, we always discover new questions to consider which help guide us to better decisions and better ways to live together.

In the last four years I have noticed a shift in our society. There seems to be more aggressive behavior when it comes to day to day interaction. Common courtesies seem to have been lost. This attitude carries over into business and political arguments and positions that isolate us from one another in harmful ways. I believe that we can help to shift that attitude by turning to Torah.

I suggest, as Rabbi Beth suggested last night, that we need to make efforts as much as possible to look at everyone as if they are in the image of God. We might go from cutting people off, or making assumptions about their differences, to approaching them with an open heart. We might well receive a changed attitude in return and, perhaps, be able to re-open those conversations that now seem so impossible. I believe more common ground exists than we are ready to acknowledge.

In Moses lengthy final speech before the Israelites enter the Promised Land, he establishes that everyone that enters the land must be able tell the story of how we were once slaves and how God saved us with an outstretched hand. Each individual had to be able to tell that story so that it would become “their own story”. This spiritual core, this essential prayer, is a story that we remember. The people are commanded to remember; they are also commanded to pass that memory down to their children.

Last month we observed the 40th anniversary of my Grandfather’s Yahrzeit. My Papa Ben bestowed upon me his great love of Yiddishkeit and I was inspired to learn more. Papa Ben never taught me prayers or even much ritual, but he lived a Jewish life that fulfilled him and communicated deep and enduring love. In his own way, he recited the story of our history and helped me to understand who I am. I decided that I wanted to love my family as deeply and as unconditionally as my Papa Ben did me and my brother. The roadmap for doing that turned out to be the incorporation of Jewish values and ritual into our lives. This has become possible because of our connection to this community and this Congregation and we have grown in ways that help us to tell our story to each other and to communicate at ever deeper levels.

I am so grateful to the clergy and staff here at Congregation Emanu-El that contribute their full beings to ensure that Judaism in San Francisco will be eternal and that the more than 2100 member families are given the opportunity to experience our great heritage at a level that works for them. We are blessed as a Congregation to have our story handed down to us and to have this magnificent sanctuary in which to gather together.

I have been speaking to you for the last few years about our dreams to help transform our building. We have been intentionally deliberate because we want to make sure that we get it right, and that this place will satisfy the needs of our community for the next 100 years. We now are visioning a design which will facilitate all of our programming needs and make this the place where you and your loved ones will want to be. We want to make our experience at Temple Emanu-El more welcoming and secure and create more intimate spaces to connect and share each other’s joys and sorrows. We want to create a new social hall that will make planning simchas for weddings and B’nei Mitzvah a one stop operation. We want our classrooms to sparkle with the latest in learning technology and invite our children to be excited about coming to Sunday school. All of these improvements will insure that Judaism in San Francisco will be here for generations to come. In the space that we are planning, I have dreams of talking Torah over a coffee or while baking a challah together.

There is a story in the Talmud of an old guy observed planting a carob tree. When asked if he really expected to live long enough to consume the fruits of his labor, he replied: “I was born into a world flourishing with ready pleasures. My ancestors planted for me, and I now I plant for my children...”

We want everyone in this community and Congregation and their children to be able taste the magnificent fruits that have been handed down to us.

We know who we are, because we remember.

(Spoiler alert! Screen time has been linked to a seismic shift in teen behavior — from driving to sexual activity, depression, and suicide. These outcomes should inform our understanding of the true risks of screen addiction.) Larkin Street Youth Services

This year, the Tzedek Council is partnering with Larkin Street Youth Services and the City of San Francisco to reduce the number of youth experiencing homelessness in San Francisco.

On Yom Kippur, the Tzedek Council’s “A Conversation with Youth Experiencing Homelessness in Our City” brought together over 250 Emanu-El members to discuss how we can help homeless youth in our city. The program included presentations from: (1) Two inspirational youth who, after having experienced homelessness themselves, are now connected to Larkin Street Youth Services; (2) Dr. Colette Auerswald, a pediatrician and associate professor in Community Health Sciences at U.C. Berkeley School of Public Health; (3) Program moderator Jeff Kositsky, an Emanu-El congregant and director of the San Francisco Department of Homelessness and Supportive Housing; and (4) Emanu-El Rabbis Jason Rodich and Ryan Bauer.

More photos and an audio recording of this program can be found here: www.emanuelsf.org/homelessyouth

How You Can Help!

Would you like to help make a difference in the lives of young adults experiencing homelessness? To participate in this tikkun olam, please see below for ideas about how you can get involved, including some specific volunteer opportunities.

1. Become a collection drive champion — help collect and donate items for youth experiencing homelessness! Each month, we will announce a new drive for items needed by clients of Larkin Street Youth Services. Throughout the month, please bring packages of new adult hats or beanie caps with you when you come to services or participate in other programs at the temple. To become more involved in the collection drives for Larkin Street Youth Services, please contact the Tzedek Council at TCvolunteer@emanuelsf.org. The donation bin is located in Emanu-El’s front office foyer. Please involve your family, friends, and community in filling the bin each month!

2. Sponsor a Sunday night dinner for youth experiencing homelessness — cook, eat, and socialize with residents of G-House! Run by Larkin Street Youth Services, G House is a 20-bed transitional housing program for homeless young adults in San Francisco. G-House provides its 18- to 24-year-old residents with the tools necessary to ensure a successful transition to independent living. Please sign up at our website: www.emanuelsf.org/homelessyouth.org.

Help Reunite and Support Immigrant Children and Families

While many immigrant children have been reunited with their parents, an unimaginable number of kids remain separated from their families. The Jewish Community Relations Council offers ways for our community to assist in this effort, and we are continuing our work with the International Rescue Committee to help with both the physical and emotional needs of these impacted families. Congregation Emanu-El has set out to help six families ($2,500 per family), and we are one-third of the way to reaching our goal! If you would like to contribute, please make a donation at help.rescue.org/donate (don’t forget to put “Congregation Emanu-El SF” in the field that asks for your community’s name).

SAVE THE DATE

Sponsor a Homeless Youth During Chanukah

CELEBRATING A SHEHECHEYANU MOMENT?

Congregation Emanu-El is a partner in the transitional moments of our members’ lives. Be it a baby naming or brit milah, bar or bat mitzvah, conversion or wedding ceremony, or a recovery from illness, the Temple clergy and staff strive to ensure that each sacred “Shehecheyanu Moment” is deeply fulfilling and personal. A donation to the Emanu-El Life-Cycle Fund is a lovely way to mark a personal life-cycle experience, to honor friends or family celebrating a happy milestone or in gratitude for the services, the clergy provide during these profound moments. Please donate online at www.emanuelsf.org/donate-now/ or call the Development office at (415) 750-7554.
