OPEN DOOR SHABBAT WITH SPECIAL GUEST: Mohammed Al Samawi

SEPT 21 Selichot Program

SEPT 22 SAN QUENTIN Theatre Workshop
Mohammed Al Samawi is an interfaith activist, a refugee from Yemen and author of the autobiography, The Fox Hunt. This book tells the story of Mohammed’s personal journey that led him from harboring a deep suspicion of other faiths to becoming a peace advocate. A critical, powerful encounter with a teacher challenged him to learn about the Bible and Judaism, rerouting him from a path of likely violence. Mohammed’s journey to interfaith commitment ultimately saved his life, when four American strangers, through the use of social media, helped rescue him from extremist groups in Yemen. Mohammed remains committed to the exchange of core values that define our religious traditions. He hopes to advance this work through his interfaith organization, Abrahamic House, to build sustainable interfaith learning and action across Muslim, Jewish, and Christian communities in order to foster an environment of learning, respect, and social change.

The Fox Hunt is a 2019 Nautilus book winner and 2019 National Jewish Book Awards Finalist. A film based on the book is now under development by movie producer Marc Platt (La La Land) and Josh Singer (who won an Academy Award for best original screenplay for the film Spotlight).

Selah! This word, which appears 74 times in the book of Psalms spelled with the Hebrew letter Heh, can be translated as “praise” or “forever.” But when spelled with the Hebrew letter Ayin, Selah means “rock” — like the rock that Moses incorrectly struck when seeking water in the wilderness after Miriam (whose name may have meant “water finder”) had died.

I assume that the parents of Selah Schneiter, who is now, at the age of ten, the youngest person to have ever climbed El Capitan, named her after the geological formation. This daughter of two mountain climbers has certainly lived up to that designation, but as a 10-year-old record holder doing something that I, with my fear of heights, could never imagine doing, she is also worthy of praise (as the alternative Hebrew meaning of her name implies).

While some might question the wisdom of encouraging one’s young child to participate in such a sport, Selah’s achievement does serve as a reminder that our kids can do amazing things when given the opportunity. This holds true when it comes to sports, secular school, and social justice opportunities, and must also apply to Jewish education, which includes our Emanu-El Youth and Family Education class offerings.

While many parents tell us they are glad that Emanu-El’s school endeavors create such a fun and engaging learning environment, one that builds community, as your synagogue leadership we have been spending much time thinking about how we can do even better. What can we do to meet the needs of children who want to climb higher, to help our youth who want to explore Torah in more creative ways, or build an even stronger sense of youth engagement and community? How can we integrate the latest in Jewish educational advancement, utilize technology, and better engage parents to collaborate in our desire to improve?

As a clergy team, along with our new head of school Lom Friedman, we have been pondering these questions and have already instituted new opportunities in the form of increased Hebrew offerings, expanded family retreats, and at-home self-guided elective enrichment projects.

Out of these conversations has come a desire to implement a new curriculum that will provide more opportunities to our children through track electives, more support to our teachers, and better tools for our parents to share with their children, creating opportunities for reinforcement at home. We are doing so in consultation with leading experts in Jewish education from the Hebrew Union College and the larger Reform movement.

After having spent a first year getting to know our program, Lom is now working on some exciting projects and an educational vision that will unfold over the next few years. We plan on introducing a new curriculum that supports more Hebrew and Torah learning while offering an experimental Hebrew-focused engagement track that will first be tested in this year’s 5th grade. We hope to provide more time for teacher meetings and training, to create a parent/teacher association, and to form a professional educator support team that can help our teachers in the classroom.

This fiscal year, we have added new support in our school, investing the precious dollars that you share with us as members and donors, to help build a better Emanu-El and a better Jewish future.

We believe that all children who participate in our school should emerge with a joyful connection to Judaism and the Jewish people and with a love of Torah that can help guide and support them in a challenging world. It is so important for our kids who are overtaxed with schoolwork and extracurricular activities to find value and meaning and joy in the time they spend at synagogue. With that in mind, we will continue to explore ways to grow our program, improve our physical teaching space, and make more resources available to our families.

There are always new heights to climb, and atop the highest rock, we are always trying to receive Torah. Educating our youth to fulfill their Jewish future is the job of the entire synagogue and it is our gift to our people. As your clergy, we welcome your support, engagement, and partnership in this holy work. Most importantly, we want you to encourage your children to come and study with us and to place Jewish education as a higher priority in their lives.

Amen Selah!

The Temple leadership is proud to announce that we have chosen to honor Rabbi Sydney Mintz and Rabbi Ryan Bauer each with the title of Senior Associate Rabbi. This honorific is an acknowledgement of their length of outstanding service to Congregation Emanu-El. We are so grateful to them for being such vital members of our clergy team and for all they do to build and sustain Jewish life in the Bay Area. Please join us in wishing each of them mazal tov on this distinction.

No Place Like YFE

As the end of summer approaches, we look forward to welcoming back families, teens, and teachers for another great year of YFE programs.

Last year we reached new heights with a record-breaking enrollment of over 700 students! You could FEEL the ruach in the room as all of the families joined together for tefillah and gathered at the end of the day, bringing a diversity of Jewish experience and goals. OUR goal for all of our YFE programs is to experience and understand our common Jewish wisdom and traditions while helping each family find personal meaning in our shared inheritance.

YFE focuses on learning that is uniquely Jewish — Jewish holidays, Torah stories, Hebrew language, Jewish history, Jewish values — all of which is not taught at secular institutions or exhibited by the world in general. We are laying a foundation in the lives of our youth for both joyful and sad times. We are preparing them to create their own Jewish life when they go off to college, to walk into any institutions or exhibited by the world in general. We are preparing them to create their own Jewish life when they go off to college, to walk into any Jewish community and feel as if they fit right in, to be able to proudly and authoritatively answer the question: “What does being Jewish mean?” We are providing them with the tools to face a troubling world, to know right from wrong, and to be courageous and kind in their actions.

Some exciting new highlights for this year include:

- 2nd & 3rd Grade Badge Program — Inspired by scouting, YFE kids will be able to track their own growth in both knowledge and skills as they earn badges over a two-year period. Some projects will be done in groups; some they can choose individually; and others will be completed at home with grandparents, parents, and friends. It’s a “Choose Your Own Adventure” model that feeds into this age group’s intrinsic drive to master skills, be recognized for their milestones, and explore their personal interests.

- 4th Grade/6th Grade Family Retreat — Based on the success of our 6th grade family Shabbaton, this retreat will involve building community between families from both 4th and 6th grades. The families will spend the same weekend (October 25–27) at the same location (Westminster Woods), sharing meals and Shabbat services, while enjoying separate programing time and living areas. Save the date!

- 5th Grade Specialty Track — For their last year of weekly religious school, we are excited to offer 5th graders an innovative “honors program” option, providing scholastically minded students with accelerated Hebrew (in addition to regular weekly classes), Jewish skills (e.g., leading parts of a seder), and deeper philosophical conversations on texts. For students who love school, this is bound to be a great learning as well as social experience!

- Curriculum Enhancements — Based on a year of observation and evaluations, as well as input from teachers, students, and parents, we are spending the summer significantly increasing curricular resources for the coming year. This includes designing progressive units for grade clusters (pre-K/Kindergarten, 1st/2nd grades, and 4th/5th grades) and an online library of lesson plans, videos, music, stories, and other educational resources. This catalogue will be an incredible resource for new teachers and will help to avoid an accidental repeat of material from earlier grades. The grand scale of this project is not just for a single summer, but will be our new model of educational intention, collaboration, transparency, and evolution. We will build on the shoulders of giants (including the URJ’s CHAI curriculum, Jewish camp programs, and synagogues from around the country) and we will tap into our homegrown talent of educators and clergy. Look forward to regular updates throughout the year, including resources for families to use at home!

- YFE Parent Group — While Sunday mornings, Wednesday afternoons, and retreats are great ways to build community and teach Jewish values to children, YFE can also be a special place for parents to connect — and for more than just carpools! This year, we’re introducing three easy ways for parents to join the fun:

  1. New Family Welcome Buddies. Volunteer to be paired with a family that is new to Emanu-El (ideally, one near your own home). You will welcome them, show them the ropes, and be a friendly face they can recognize at big events. The pairing will mostly focus on the first couple of months of the year, but could lead to lifelong new friendships!

  2. Room Parents. Connect with teachers and help build community among families in your grade.

  3. YFE Parent Association. Once a month, we will host open meetings on a Sunday or Wednesday to share school updates, involve you in the conversation about ways to continue growing the program, and offer ways in which you can support and be involved in the school. These meetings will be social and productive!

Last May, all of our students went home with the summer homework I received from my Rabbi when I was a Sunday school student: “Read a new book, think a new thought, make a new friend, and sing a new song!” Amidst family vacations, overnight camp, barbecues, and other summer fun, I hope you all had a great time achieving these goals! We are excited to see your smiling faces again for another year of Jewish community, celebration, learning, and pride.

The San Francisco Interfaith Council and Grace Cathedral are partnering with Emanu-El to celebrate an Open Door Shabbat service. This service will allow us to welcome Shabbat with our interfaith community partners as a display of support, not in a time of crisis or despair, but simply to exemplify love for all. Our special guest, author Mohammed Al Samawi, will inspire us with his incredible story of escape from the Yemeni civil war. He will also discuss his new venture, Abrahamic House, the culmination of his vision for breaking down the barriers between different faiths.

People of all faiths are welcome to attend. Mohammed will stay after the service to sign copies of his books. Bring your copy!

A few years ago, I read about the Yemenite Muslim refugee who was rescued by Jews and Christians and crossed the Red Sea to freedom during Pesach. So when he came to speak at a local Bay Area event just before the High Holy Days last year, I broke my “no going out until the sermon is done” rule and attended his talk. I purchased a copy of his book just so I could meet him personally. Mohammed Al Samawi and I have since become friends and I give away copies of his book left and right.

On August 23, our community will host Open Door Shabbat (see details on page 6). Together with our interfaith neighbors, all of us at Congregation Emanu-El will have the opportunity to meet this amazing man who is a testament to the power of any person to overcome hate and to work every day for mutual understanding with those who are raised differently than ourselves. In preparation for Open Door Shabbat, I want you to meet the wonderful Mohammed Al Samawi!

“... We also want people to experience joint holiday celebrations and create an inclusive culture of curiosity, learning, and excitement about the religious practices of all members of our society.”

Rabbi Beth: Once you have opened your AH, what are your hopes for it? What difference would you like to see as a result?

Mohammed: I really hope AH will be motivation for others to live with people of different backgrounds and faiths, I want to create a movement that starts in the United States but it doesn’t stop there; I hope the Abrahamic House will exist in the near future in Europe and even the Middle East, like Morocco. Unfortunately, we live in a world full of misunderstanding, and my goal is to change our community by creating a pluralistic present built on shared experiences. I want to maintain the positive elements of religious traditions while simultaneously integrating those traditions into an intersectional model of community across faiths, backgrounds, and beliefs.

Rabbi Beth: What kinds of topics do you imagine AH guests will discuss?

Mohammed: Strategy teach-ins on organizing and intervention against anti-Semitism and Islamophobia. Also, service projects focusing on meeting defined needs of marginalized neighbors facing racism, immigration challenges, homelessness, abuse. We also want people to experience joint holiday celebrations and create an inclusive culture of curiosity, learning, and excitement about the religious practices of all members of our society.

Rabbi Beth: Tell me what you said about a word we share in common.

Mohammed: Yes, one of many examples is Tzedakah. In Arabic, we call it Sdaqah. It’s the same thing where we help each other. This is a goal. Part of the Abrahamic House program is to help the neighborhood around all of the Abrahamic Houses we build. As needed, we will clean streets or help homeless who need help near the House. We will help people who don’t speak English. If, say, a mosque or synagogue is damaged or attacked, we will be there to help as best we can.
Rabbi Beth: I think that anyone who reads your book suddenly starts to focus on the news from Yemen. The war is so painful and destructive. I can’t even imagine how you bear it with your family all there during the war. What would you like from us? How can we participate in ending this war?

Mohammed: Every day it is painful for me to see my family, my friends, and my beautiful country destroyed by this war. I always ask myself, “Why is this happening?” It would help if the US would stop selling weapons that keep this war going. People can read up on this issue and contact their representatives and say you are against selling weapons. Yemenis need help. Find an organization you trust that is getting food and medicine into Yemen.

Rabbi Beth: You are a Muslim, but according to my social media sources, Jews sure seem to like you. What do you think accounts for that?

Mohammed: Some of my Jewish friends call me Moshe! When I escaped from Yemen, I crossed the Red Sea, but in the wrong direction! At the American embassy to Djibouti, my number was 36. They explained to me double chai. This was my lucky number. With that number, I was able to receive a visa. People from multiple faiths helped me to come here to the US. I came without family. A lot of Jews also came here and had lost their family. I am thankful to God every day. Every day is painful for me because I live here while my family suffers. I feel the Jewish community really understands this.

Rabbi Beth: I think so much about how you were raised to hate Jews and Christians. I don’t know what to think about all those people who continue to hate entire religions.

Mohammed: There is a story of a man who brings a cheese sandwich to work every single day. He starts to complain. Day after day. It gets unbearable to hear his ongoing misery about this daily cheese sandwich. Finally, his co-workers can take it no more. They say to him, “Have you tried asking your wife to make you a different kind of sandwich?” “What?!” he responds, “What makes you think I have a wife? I make these myself every day.” Change is very hard. We like to keep complaining. But that is what my work is about. We need to continually reach out to others who disagree with us or don’t like us, then it is possible that they, like me, will change.

“...We need to continually reach out to others who disagree with us or don’t like us, then it is possible that they, like me, will change.”

Rabbi Beth: I know our congregation can’t wait to welcome you to Emanu-El. Thank you for the remarkable work you do.

Emanu-El Kitchen

No charge.

Be one of two volunteers preparing meals for Emanu-El congregants who are facing significant life challenges. You’ll work under the guidance of former restaurant owner Gail Laghi and chef Sari Swig. New participants are welcome! Register at the Temple website by the Tuesday before each cooking day, or call Rebecca Reiner at (415) 751-2541 x170.

While volunteer slots for Cooking for Congregants are limited due to the layout of our kitchen, you can help by calling the Temple office when you become aware of congregants who are grieving or ill or have become new parents. By law, hospitals will not release patient information, so clergy and staff rely on the congregant network to enable us to reach out.

Under the skilled leadership of chefs Gail Laghi and Sari Swig, volunteers prepare delicious meals. Here’s just one of many expressions of appreciation:

“Thank you so much. Sari just dropped off a week’s worth of meals for my family and me. I can’t tell you how surprised I am by this generosity. Please let the Cooking for Congregants team know that I am so grateful for this lovely gift. With lots of gratitude.”

Emanu-El has partnered with Geary House to support these youth by bringing in volunteers on Sunday evenings to cook, eat, and build meaningful relationships with the residents.

Adventure Tikkun Olam

This year, congregants Alanna Klein and Congregant/Tzedek Council Member Guillemette Brouillat-Spiegel started a Social Justice Action group called “Adventure Tikkun Olam.” This group of 1st graders (all Emanu-El preschool alumni) was started to reinforce the bonds and values that were built in preschool, most notably the Jewish value of Tikkun Olam. The goal was to actively demonstrate to the children how they can make a big impact even as small people on this planet.

Eleven children and their families met monthly for Shabbat to discuss how they can help change things for the better. The children identified problems in their community that they found upsetting, and together they worked to “repair the world, one spark at a time.” Adventure Tikkun Olam made paintings to put into the Tzedek Council’s Welcome Baskets, helping to brighten the new homes of youth transitioning out of homelessness.

We did it! Thank you!

The Tzedek Council is proud to announce that we completed our goal of collecting donations from the Emanu-El community, and then assembling 30 welcome baskets that we gave to Larkin Street Youth Services graduates who are transitioning out of homelessness and settling into permanent housing.

The welcome baskets included necessities such as pillows, sheets, blankets, and cleaning supplies. For a personal touch, a group of Emanu-El preschool graduates who are now in 1st grade (Adventure Tikkun Olam) made beautiful paintings for each basket to brighten up the new homes. Similarly, our Adventure Pre-K preschool class made pottery and collected tzedakah to buy succulent plants to bring nature into the new homes.

We did it! Thank you!
Threats and hateful comments against Jews, people of color, and certain ethnic groups are deeply disturbing. These days, there is no way to take in the news without becoming concerned for the safety of our community, but be assured that Emanu-El actively monitors potential threats and takes action to increase security accordingly. Following is information on our security efforts, including recent changes in procedures.

Continuous Improvement

Our security is focused on continuous improvement. We do not wait for emergency events to upgrade our systems. People and systems are in place to monitor processes daily. Many of the improvements are made in the stream of continual oversight rather than in reaction to events, and we frequently adjust our security procedures to meet specific situations. Quite simply, there is no one best way; different tactics work better in different situations. So we routinely conduct security reviews and make adjustments as situations warrant.

We improved our security stance over the past decade in response to the changing environment. The number of anti-Semitic incidents has increased since 2009, and particularly since 2015 (ADL, Audit of Anti-Semitic Incidents, 2018). While the number of incidents in the Bay Area is small and the percentage of incidents that results in assaults is less than two percent of the national total, we are doing our best to ensure that no harm comes to anyone at Emanu-El. Key improvements include additional guards, doubling our annual budget for security, making a seven-figure investment in the building and technology, more active partnerships with local police and other Jewish agencies, and expanded training for staff.

We know that security is a team effort. We work with a range of experienced security professionals to make informed decisions about what is best for our community. Our team includes the security firm that manages operations with experts from the local police, FBI, and Homeland Security. We work in concert with private security companies at the JCRC, the Federation, the ADL, and the SFPD’s Jewish Community Relations Board to provide multiple layers of protection. When a potential threat arises — for example, someone locally spouting virulent anti-Semitic views on social media — Emanu-El immediately coordinates with these public and private security professionals to put safeguards in place.

Emanu-El members working in the security field also serve on our security advisory group. This group includes our precinct’s police captain and a representative from the SFFD. The Board is involved in this oversight, making strategic decisions, and supporting efforts to implement best practices.

Recent Changes

Since the tragic Pittsburgh shooting, we now employ more guards out front, more often. We increased the use of enhanced bag checks, metal detector screening, and police presence. And we’ve made additional improvements “under the hood” that we don’t publicize.

We also increased our staff training so that we can assist in case of an emergency. In May, the internationally recognized security experts from Gavin DeBecker provided active shooter training for all clergy and staff.

What’s Next

We recently conducted a security audit through an outside agency. We are currently reviewing the results of that audit and will soon make recommendations to the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors.

We Need Your Help

We are incredibly lucky to have access to many security experts, but creating safe space is everyone’s job. If you notice anything suspicious, please report it immediately to an on-site security professional. Ask questions. Comments and suggestions from members have always been helpful. Some ideas get implemented, often without the member realizing it, while other suggestions prove to not be the right course. In every case, we welcome suggestions. Please email us directly.

We have a responsibility to keep each other safe, and working together, we can!

Celebrating a Shehecheyanu Moment?
Congregation Emanu-El is a partner in the transitional moments of our members’ lives. Be it a baby naming or brit milah, bar or bat mitzvah, conversion or wedding ceremony, or a recovery from illness, the Temple clergy and staff strive to ensure that each sacred “Shehecheyanu Moment” is deeply fulfilling and personal. A donation to the Emanu-El Life-Cycle Fund is a lovely way to mark a personal life-cycle experience, to honor friends or family celebrating a happy milestone or in gratitude for the services, the clergy provide during these profound moments.

Please donate online at www.emanuelsf.org/donate-now/ or call the Development office at (415) 750-7554.

Please visit our website (www.emanuelsf.org/support-us/), select “Donate Now or Annual Giving,” and follow the steps to make a gift. You will receive an electronic confirmation, followed by an acknowledgment letter in the mail. If you need assistance, contact Talia Rothman in the Development Office at trothman@emanuelsf.org or (415) 750-7554.

Appreciated Stock Gifts

Did you know that you could make charitable gifts — including your Emanu-El Membership Dues and Impact Fund gifts — by donating your appreciated stock? This is a great way to avoid capital gains taxes while supporting the Congregation.
