A post-election look at Israel with Professor David N. Myers

Congregation Emanu-El is pleased to welcome David N. Myers, Board President of the New Israel Fund and renowned professor of Jewish history. Professor Myers will explore the present and future landscape of Israel after this year’s double elections and in light of key historical trends over the past 50 years.

David N. Myers is the Sady and Ludwig Kahn Professor of Jewish History at UCLA, Director of the UCLA Luskin Center for History and Policy, and the author or editor of 15 books. An alumnus of Yale (1982), Myers undertook graduate studies at Tel-Aviv and Harvard Universities before receiving his Ph.D. with distinction in Jewish History from Columbia University in 1991.

Artist-in-Residence
Rick Lupert
January 10–12, 2020

Our artist-in-residence extraordinaire — nationally acclaimed Jewish spoken word artist Rick Lupert — will entertain us for a weekend in January. Rick will perform at our Friday evening services, lead us in a musical poetry jam Havdalah on Saturday evening, and perform and teach at our Sunday morning Hebrew School.

Emanu-El Next
Thank you to everyone who attended our recent Town Hall meetings about Emanu-El Next. If you were unable to attend, or just want more information or wish to provide feedback, please visit our campaign website at next.emanuelsf.org
At the risk of putting our nonprofit status at risk, as one of your Rabbis, I am going to publicly tell you how to vote! In this case, since I am asking you to vote for me, or for Rabbi Beth, or for anyone on the ARZA Reform Movement slate, I don’t think I have much to worry about. However, in the election this January for the World Zionist Organization (WZO), your vote for us WILL make a difference for the good of the State of Israel and the Jewish People.

Five years ago, our Emanu-El membership participated in the WZO campaign, selecting candidates to represent North American Jewry at the WZO Congress and in its committees. The WZO was created as a means of connecting the diaspora more essentially with the State of Israel; it gives diaspora Jews, working with Israelis, an opportunity to affect policy in the promised land. Representation in the WZO is determined by the number of votes a group receives. Representatives then allocate money to different causes in Israel while also advising the Karen Kayemet (the Israeli Jewish National Fund) in its activities.

Our turnout five years ago gave the Reform Movement the largest seat at the table. It enabled Rabbi Mintz to attend the convention where she joined with others to ensure that a female Reform Rabbi would sit at the JNF table along with a male Orthodox Rabbi to influence policy. Our representatives succeeded in directing funding that was essential to helping the nascent Israeli Reform Movement increase exponentially in size. Previously, the Israeli Reform Movement had not received financial support from such an entity. With our victory, however, they were granted $20 million over a period of five years, which was apportioned to Reform synagogues desperate for funding all over the country. Our WZO representation was also able to join in the debate about how best to support the peace process, encourage rights for LGBTQ Israelis, take a stand against extremism, and ensure that our Reform Jewish values were at the table.

Now, all of that progress is at risk if we do not perform as well, or BETTER, in the upcoming elections (January 21 to March 11). Voting will help those who may feel frustrated about not being able to influence Israeli policy actually make a difference. And voting is even easier this time! When the polls open, all you have to do is go online and register (for a fee of $7.50); declare that you are at least 18 years old, Jewish, and a permanent resident of the US; and affirm the principles of the Jerusalem program, which basically states that you think a democratic and secure State of Israel is important.

Rabbi Beth and I ask that you participate and vote for us! Know that, in so doing, you will help us represent a strong, confident Reform Zionism that celebrates the vitality and significance of the State of Israel. You will also be ensuring that the Torah values of loving your neighbor as yourself, embracing a beautifully diverse Jewish people along with an ethnically and religiously diverse Israel, and striving for peace remain core organizing principles of the country. We want Israel to be a light unto the nations in a world that we know is desperate for goodness to shine more brightly.

We are grateful that Aaron Tartakovsky and Kimberly Sanner have agreed to be the campaign captains, with the energetic support of our indefatigable Israeli Action Chair, Jordan Hymowitz.

We will send out the voting links next month, and there will be laptops and iPads available for your use as well. Please let me know if you have any questions.

L’shalom,
Rabbi Jonathan Singer

A Guide to Lighting Your Menorah

We light the menorah for eight days to remember the miracle of the human spirit, honor the light of rededication and the Maccabees who put their trust in God. Small lights push back darkness just as a small vial of oil for eight nights helped redeem our hope.

What kind of menorah?
The menorah can be any size and made of any material. All eight candles (except the Shamash) should be at the same height, and preferably in a straight line.

How many candles?
One candle is added each of the eight nights — plus the extra helper candle called the “Shamash” (the center candle).

Why 8?
Chanukah is celebrated for eight days, even though the miracle of the oil was really only seven (the first day’s light shouldn’t count — it’s natural) to teach us that everything in the “natural” world is really a miracle. Nothing happens without God willing it.

Where to light?
To publicize the miracle, many light the menorah outside their front doorway. Otherwise, the menorah should be lit in a window facing the street.

What to light?
The candles must be big enough to burn for at least 30 minutes. Many use olive oil, to recall the original miracle in the Temple.

How to light?
Light the Shamash.
Recite the blessings.
Use the Shamash to light the Chanukah candles.

When to light?
The first opportunity to light is at nightfall. Many wait until later, when all the members of the household are present.

Who lights?
In Ashkenazi tradition, each person lights his own menorah. Sephardic tradition is one menorah per family.

Family Activities

Want to add more fun to your Chanukah celebration? Here are some games and activities that will help you focus on the miracle, the light, and the sense of renewal that families everywhere want to observe during their eight nights of celebration.

“A Great Miracle Happened There” Album or Collage — Each side of the dreidel is an acronym for this phrase, and you can celebrate miracles big and small with a photo collage that you frame or put in a special Chanukah celebration album to share with family.

Chanukah Reader’s Theater — Grab some Chanukah-themed books (mix it up with some from the library or loaned from friends), assign parts or pages and read a book together in reader’s theater style.

Menorah One Act — Have children make headpieces from construction paper (blue for the band, yellow for the flame) and entertain the family with the story of the Chanukah menorah.

Motto of the Maccabee — The word Maccabee is an acronym for the Torah verse that was the Maccabee battle cry. Make a family “battle cry” or motto and put them on banners to celebrate the holiday.

Upcycled Gift Holders — Encourage the giving of small gifts by having each member of the family create a Chanukah gift holder, whether that be eight socks, eight hats, eight recycled coffee cans, etc.

Matzah Temple — A fun twist on the gingerbread house, create a Jerusalem Temple out of Matzah and icing with gold and silver wrapped candy to decorate (don’t forget to include a candy flame burning bright!). Mazel tov!

Handprint Menorah — Great for younger children, make a print with blue paint on the palm, white on the fingers (for preschoolers, just do all blue), with a yellow thumbprint “flame” at the top. (Combine the thumbs into one flame for nine flames.) Give to a special family member or display.

Edible Dreidels — Make your own edible dreidels from a pretzel stick, marshmallow, and Hershey’s kiss as the spinner (attach with a small dollop of frosting). Yum!

Found Materials Craft — Find sticks, old pencils, pipe cleaners, craft sticks — whatever is around the house — and fashion a Star of David from each to hang or display on the mantel.

Latke Platter — Need to get out over the holiday break? Find a local paint-your-own-pottery store and create a large platter with your family name and decorate it together as a keepsake (plus serving wear) for years to come.

Dreidel Instagram Garland — Print out favorite photos from your account from the past year and attach them to dreidels cut from colorful paper that serves as frames. Hang the garland of dreidels on the bannister or mantel for the family to enjoy.

Festival of Lights Luminaries — These can be made from white paper bags decorated by the family or tin cans with holes poked in the shape of a Star of David and put outside for guests to enjoy as the arrive.

Photo Menorah — Create a menorah-shaped photo gallery on your wall with painter’s tape and nine vertical 4x6 pictures as the candle holders (add nine slender paper candles with flames on top), and build your menorah down to the floor with more pictures of family. Great for practicing names of faraway family members!

Your Own Shamesh Candle — Just like the menorah has eight candles and a ninth “worker candle” (Shamesh), get a special yellow hat (representing the flame) and each night of Chanukah the person who wears the hat is the special helper, assisting with the meal and picking a special activity.

Chanukah Coasters — Create gifts for family members or useful coasters for your holiday table with white tiles from the home improvement store, dreidel or Star of David cutouts, or tissue and crafting glue to seal your work.

Chanukah Recipes for the Whole Family!

Mom’s Potato Latkes

Ingredients
- 3 cups shredded potato
- 1/4 cup grated onion
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 6 saltine crackers, or as needed, crushed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil, or as needed

Directions
Mix potato, onion, eggs, crackers, salt, and pepper together in a large bowl.

Pour enough vegetable oil into a skillet to fill about ½ inch deep; heat over medium-high heat.

Drop spoonfuls of the potato mixture, first pressing potato mixture against the side of the bowl to remove excess liquid, into the hot oil; slightly flatten the latkes into the oil with the back of your spoon so they are evenly thick.

Cook in hot oil until browned and crisp, 3–5 minutes per side. Drain latkes on a plate lined with a paper towel.

Chanukah Star Challah

Ingredients
- 1 cup water
- 2 eggs
- 1-1/4 teaspoons salt
- 3 tablespoons white sugar
- 3-2/3 cups bread flour
- 1 teaspoon active dry yeast
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 tablespoon sesame seeds, or more if desired

Directions
Place 1 cup of water, eggs, salt, sugar, bread flour, and yeast into the pan of a bread machine in the order recommended by the manufacturer. Select the dough setting and start the machine.

When cycle is completed, remove dough from the machine, and set onto a floured work surface for 15 minutes to rest. Cover dough with a towel or large bowl to prevent drying out.

Knead the dough several times and cut into 6 equal pieces. Roll each piece out into a rope about 10 inches long and 1 inch in diameter.

Line a baking sheet with parchment paper. Lay 3 ropes of bread onto the prepared baking sheet, and pinch ropes together firmly at the ends to form a pointed triangle.

Weave 3 more ropes over and underneath each point of the first triangle to make a second, interwoven triangle.

Pinch it closed tightly at the edges to make a 6-pointed star. Set the baking sheet in a warm place, and allow to rise until doubled, 30–45 minutes.

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Whisk egg yolk with 1 tablespoon of water and brush the mixture over the loaf; sprinkle with sesame seeds.

Bake in the preheated oven until the challah is shiny, golden brown, and sounds hollow when tapped, about 35 minutes.

Congregants Filled the Room at Hamilton Families Benefit Honoring Rabbi Bauer!

Thank you to our Emanu-El members who attended the Hamilton Families Benefit at Bimbo’s 365 Club to honor Rabbi Bauer in September. This award is a reflection of all the work Emanu-El has done over the past two years in building social justice programs that focus on reducing San Francisco’s homeless population. With the presence and assistance of Emanu-El, Hamilton Families exceeded its fundraising goal — a testament to what is possible when communities come together in efforts to better the world!

The Short and Long of Things

I was recently sitting in Guild Hall for a Saturday morning learning service with 75 6th graders and their parents when a student had a question for Rabbi Rodich: “Why should we bother learning Hebrew if hardly anyone speaks it anyways?” Parents quietly laughed under their breaths at the direct question, but the Rabbi smiled widely. The short answer could be that, in fact, about 9 million people worldwide speak modern Hebrew proficiently. And while you could travel to Israel and get by in English, the depth of your experience and connections would be limited. Hebrew is the language of Israel, both the country and the Jewish people around the world.

When I was in college studying abroad in France, I traveled to the new Czech Republic and visited a synagogue where I was quickly welcomed by a man speaking in the Czech language. I shook my head and asked “English?” He shook his head and asked, “Deutsch?” Again, I shook my head and tried, “Français?” The game was getting old at this point as we were losing on both sides. But when I offered “Ivrit? Hebrew?,” his eyes lit up and he smiled. A connection! Across miles, generations, and nationalities, we had found a starting place.

A Rabbi had once theorized with me that if we taught only the Hebrew language to YFE students, everything else would follow: an understanding of blessings and services, direct access to the Torah as a primary text, and cultural words that have no real translation (think “shofar”, “Shabbat”, “lulav, and “chutzpah”). Though we cannot learn an entire language in a couple hours a week, I find the 6th-grader’s question inspiring in a larger sense.

1. Know Where You Come From

So much of our unconscious lives comes from our history. This includes the foods we eat, our common names, our sense of humor, values, mannerisms, and on and on. These get passed on from generation to generation without schools or classes. Judaism is sometimes described as a civilization, not just a religion. And often, when you meet a stranger who is Jewish, even from another country or culture, there can be that familiarity and recognition. Knowing where you come from is important for self-awareness, pride, community, and being a part of a multicultural society like America.

2. Wherever You Go, There’s Always Someone Jewish

More than a lyric from a children’s song you may remember, it is pretty true. Like when I was trekking in the mountains of Nepal and came upon a group of Israelis on their gap year, it can be a magical connection. And while I had met, befriended, and traveled with many people from all parts of the world on that trip, even I was surprised at the difference it made to run into new Jewish friends. We really do belong to a larger mishpacha (family) — which can prove as joyful, and sometimes as frustrating, as our actual families. This connection is not grounded in genetics, but rather in a shared cultural continuity of language, traditions, values, and history... that is, if we know them.

3. AntiSemitism

Throughout history and even today, whether or not we practice, celebrate, or identify as Jewish, there will be others who see us exclusively that way. In such cases, we don’t always get to choose how we are identified or labeled. But having a strong community, pride, and understanding of what has come before prepares us to defy prejudice, discrimination, and hatred.
4. There Comes a Time

Life milestones can both uplift and challenge us. From making a life commitment to a partner, to the birth of a new baby, to losing a loved one, these moments inherently feel bigger than ourselves. Traditions and practices help us process these peak experiences, grasp universal mysteries, and survive tragedy. Belonging to a community with shared values and traditions makes all the difference. And in these moments, even if we have not felt “observant” before, most feel comfort, joy, peace, and even transcendence in these communal traditions that wouldn’t be available to us otherwise. But if we wait until these moments to learn the words or connect to community, their power is significantly diminished. Jewish knowledge, experience, community, and identity have the power to enhance and support us in the everyday routine and in life’s peaks and valleys.

Back to my Saturday morning with the 6th grade, after our morning service, we cleared away all the chairs and dove into a “Values Fair” activity in which family groups had to make tough choices between all of their wants and needs while operating on a limited budget. We found that more intangible things (such as community, learning, identity, faith) only grow in value based on what we invest in them (time, intention, energy, resources). Like a soul savings account, what we put into them today (or put in for our children) will bear fruit in the future.

This is why Emanu-El prioritizes its education programs. This is why parents get kids dressed and out of the house on Sunday mornings. This is why teachers, who have full-time Monday-to-Friday jobs, come to teach on their days off. This is why I smile when students ask “Why?!”, generation after generation. And this is why we bother.

Gratitude

November 4, 2019
Emanu-El,

Please accept our deepest gratitude to you and everyone at Congregation Emanu-El for helping to make sure that everyone in our community has enough to eat!

We deeply appreciate your generous contributions to the JFCS Food Bank during the 5780 High Holidays. Your gifts were part of an outpouring of support from the Jewish community that filled our food bank shelves in all five of JFCS’ service regions. This year, we received more than 75 barrels’ worth of food from across the regions. With each barrel weighing around 125 pounds, that’s 9,375 pounds of food!

Seniors and persons with disabilities on fixed incomes, young families struggling to make ends meet, individuals overwhelmed by temporary financial setbacks, all visit our food bank on a weekly basis. Thanks to you, we can help to meet their basic needs, so they can face life’s challenges with strength and hope.

Thank you so much for your support of members of the JFCS community!

Bring Smiles To Elder Congregants Celebrating a Birthday Milestone!

The Torah considers old age a virtue and a blessing. Throughout the Torah, “old” (zakein) is synonymous with “wise”; the Torah commands us to respect all elderly because the experiences that come with each additional year of life bring a wisdom which is unlike any other.

In embracing this belief, we are looking for caring volunteers who can send handwritten birthday cards to fellow congregants who are celebrating a birthday of 85 years old or older. Each volunteer sends about 6 cards per month, and we supply the cards and envelopes. If you are interested in this very special at-home volunteer opportunity, please email Georgina Garcia at ggarcia@emanuelsf.org.
We are a vibrant, sacred Jewish community that is dedicated to advancing our members’ lifelong involvement in Judaism through worship, learning, good deeds, and congregant to congregant connections.
